U. S. WARSHIPS OFF VERA CRUZ SHORES

WARNING TO MEXICAN REBELS IN TAMPICO BLOCKADE

SEVEN VESSELS PROTECT AMERICAN COMMERCE

Ordered From Canal Zone to Prevent Interference With U. S. Shipping.—Excitement at Mexican Port High Over Movement.

Washington.—United States cruisers are off Vera Cruz in silent but emphatic warning that Mexican revolutionists must not iterfere with American vessels in the attempted blockade of Tampico harbor. The cruiser Omaha and six destroyers, accompanied by the repair ship Promethus, were hurried northward from canal zone waters.

There was no break at Washington in the official silence that has marked the attitude of the American government in connection with the Tampico blockade. Unquestionably, administration officials feel considerable relief in having received ETAOIN NNN lief ni having Admiral Margruder aboard the Richmond at Vera Cruz.

The Richmond represents a very definite change in the situation relating to the blockade at Tampico. The Washington government now has available in Mexican waters fast and powerful warships which can protect American merchant shipping. There is still much hope that events will not require the employment of force or even for the sending of arm. essels into Tampico.

Tampico.—The American steamer Dannedaike had rushed its loading operations and was preparing to clear from Tampico within the insurgent time limit when a wireless received from Washington ordered the captain to stay at the dock in Tampico until further orders. As a result there was considerable excitement in both the American and Mexican quarters in Tampico, as the orders were believed to be dictated by a determination to defy the insurgent blockade.

This excitement was heightened when both American and Mexican wireless picked up reports that the fleet of American warships were on their way to Tampico from Panama.

McADOO IS ENDORSED BY THE STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

San Francisco.—The Democratic state central committee in the concert room of the Palace hotel formally launched the campaign by endorsing by vote and by acclamation the candidacy of William G. McAdoo for the presidency, James D. Phelan introducing the resolution. He reviewed McAdoo's accomplishments as wartime secretary of the treasury and director of the railways, spoke of his service in the establishment of the federal reserve banking system and praised his leadership in the Liberty bond campaigns. He emphasized McAdoo's aid to the farmers in establishing the federal farm loan system.

State Committee Chairman Purkitt presided and was commissioned by the assembly to name within a week a committee of fifteen, one from each congressional district and four at large, to plan for the selection of delegates from California to the national Democratic convention to be held in New York City in June.

CHAMPION SPENDER IS DEAD —HAD SQUANDERER $15,000,000

Cripple Creek.—W. L. (Lafe) Fyffe, maker and squanderer of fortunes estimated at $15,000,000, is dead, and with his passing the west loses one of its most picturesque characters—the prospector of the old boom days. Fyffe had spent his entire lifetime prospecting in the mining regions of Colorado. In one of his deals, he sold four claims to the Portland Mine for a consideration reputed to be nearly half a million dollars. With the proceeds of the sale he purchased the finest mansion in Cripple Creek.

When some of his guests brought disrepute upon the house by taking advantage of his hospitality he is said to have put them out, wrecked the house and its furnishings with an ax and then deeded the place to a friend for the consideration of one dollar.

Rebels Demand $400,000

New Orleans—The revolutionists in Mexico have demanded $400,000 from the Mexican Petroleum company and have threatened to destroy the refineries, storage tanks and other properties of the company at Tampico if the money is not forthcoming, it was learned from members of a party including Edward L. Doheny, president of the concern, which arrived from the Pacific coast.

EIGHTY CHILDREN INJURED AT RACES

SPECTATORS PLUNGED TO FLOOR AS RAILING BREAKS

PARENTS RUSH ARMORY WHERE TOTS ARE HURT

Youngsters Piled in Shrieking Heaps When Section of Balcony Collapsed While High School Track Meet Was in Progress.

Brooklyn, N.Y.—Between eighty and one hundred children were carried over a balcony edge to the floor of the Thirteenth regiment armory building, twenty feet below, when a section of railing collapsed during the running of the high school track and field championships. Forty, between 12 and 16, were seriously hurt and twenty made unconscious. First estimates placed the total injured at eighty.

Emergency calls brought forty doctors and fourteen ambulances to the scene, while firemen aided the adult spectators in rescuing the small victims from the tangled, shrieking heap beneath the balcony.

A 440-yard dash was in progress when the accident occurred. Some 6,000 spectators were intent on the running and the balcony spectators, mostly boys, surged forward against the railing as the runners swept to the finish. A section of the balcony rail, about eight feet in length, gave way under the strain. The little group surged forward, those in front spilling helplessly over the edge to the hardwood floor below; those behind tumbling after, pushed by others still farther back.

Word of the accident spread and anxious parents crowded about the armory entrances and sought to see through the windows. Police lines were drawn for blocks and 250 police were sent to assist in caring for the injured and in keeping order.

Inside, on the floor, the children were laid in rows, the more seriously hurt being taken first to the ambulances.

MAD RANCHER SHOT DOWN IN BATTLE WITH POSSE

Redwood City.—Barricading himself in his small ranch house near Runnymede, Archie McKinzie, retired rancher, took pot shots at passersby on the Middlefield and Willow road highway. Frantic calls were sent police of nearby towns and a sheriff's posse was sent from this city to capture him. As soon as the posse hove in sight McKinzie began shooting at them and they returned his fire.

A telephone request was sent to San Francisco for the tear bombs, but before they arrived McKinzie made a break for freedom and one of the attacking squad shot him in the leg, breaking his knee. He was taken to the hospital in Redwood City, where he was treated and is being held for observation. He later died from loss of blood and the shock. The wound was not of a fatal nature.

Chicago Hears Johnson

Senator Johnson opened his presidential campaign in Illinois by addressing two meetings in Chicogo. In his speech the senator attacked the administration's tax reduction plan, declaring it to be a "blind to obscure issues and benefit the wealthy." He declared the the government overtaxed the people last year and finds itself with a surplus on hand of $350,000,000. "We must correct this condition of affairs by which we collect more than we should have collected in taxation, and we can only correct this condition of affairs by reducing taxation," he said.

Operation As Crime Cure

Oakland.—An operation has been ordered for Anthony Wrobleski, ex-service man, to conquer criminal tendencies. He was committed to Napa state hospital following a hearing before Superior Judge J. S. Koford in Oakland. Physicians declared they believed Wrobleski insane from a blow he received on the head while he was in the service in the Philippines in 1916. He engaged in a fight with another soldier at the time and was knocked unconcious, the records show. Prior to that time he had a good record.

Protects Soldier Compensation

Washington.—Under an order by Director Hines, the status of former service men who are given a compensation rating after their disability is determined, cannot be changed without approval of the central board of appeals and the director of the veterans' bureau. Heretofore a veteran's compensation could have been stopped by district boards of appeal and officers in the field.

The United States Veterans' bureau has required the assistance of the California Real Estate association in obtaining an impartial appraisal of the Craig Ford ranch property in the San Fernando valley, which has been offered to the government as a hospital site. Director Hines' request for this assistance resulted in the following committee being named: Herman Janss, San Joaquin; J. G. Munholland, Long Beach; E. T. Oakes, Los Angeles, C. F. Guthrie, Glendale; N. E. McFadden, Santa Barbara; E. A. White, Santa Ana; L. B. Lesperance and J. R. Goldworthy, Van Nuys. All are members of the association. President Henry Barbour will serve ex-officio.

California will rank second to New York for the 1923 automobile registration year, which ends January 31, and with increasing population and individual means, motor cars are increasing in number at an astonishing rate. At present the state has more automobiles per thousand of population than any state in the union. Every person in California could be moved from the state by automobile in twenty-four hours, with no car making more than one trip.

A suit to restrain the payment of $105,000 insurance carried by Alex Kels, was filed in court at Kansas City in behalf of Armande Andrew Kels, who said he is a son of the slayer by his first wife. According to the petition, the first Mrs. Kels, a vaudeville actress, obtained a divorce in Stockton, and she has custody of the one child, aged 16 years, who she believes is entitled to a portion of the insurance money.

Brooding over the case of Alex Kels, the Lodi murderer who was hanged at Folsom, is believed to have contributed to the mental collapse of Rev. T. M. Ryder, Methodist minister of Arcata. He was known to have first shown great interest in the case, which later developed into what amounted to brooding. It was the day Kels was hanged, according to his friends, that Ryder showed the first signs of breaking.

A Kansas City dispatch states that Mrs. Margaret Ruby Kels of that city was appointed administratrix of the estate of Alexander A. Kels, who was hanged January 4 for the murder of a laborer at Lodi. She is Kels' first wife and is seeking a share of the executed man's $40,000 estate for her 16-year-old son.

Presenting fraudulent exemption blanks at garage and service stations, scores of motorists who describe themselves as "engaged in state business" are duping the public and securing gasoline free of tax, according to information in the hands of state officials.

Injunction proceedings brought against the Tamalpais high school board to determine the legality of sale of $35,000 bonds and the payment of warrants have been dismissed. The decision will release a fund of $100,000, held up about a year by the suit.

J. R. Abernathy, former superintendent of the Anaheim city schools and prominent in Orange county, was placed in the Santa Ana jail, accused of being the head of a ring which post-office inspectors declare has looted the mails of approximately $25,000.

George B. Harden, pioneer of Colusa county, known in northern California as a farmer, editor and real estate broker, died at Maxwell. Harden came across the plains sixty years ago. He founded and for many years published the Maxwell Tribune.

CAMPBELL PHONE DISTRICT ENLARGED

The long hoped for boone has been granted and both townspeople and rural district is greatly benefited.

Thru the quiet efforts of C. E. York working thru the Farm Bureau Federation and Engineer L. S. Wing in particular, the Quito road section as far south as Sobey road has been placed in the Campbell Telephone district by the State Railroad Commission.

For years the residents along this road have been a part of Campbell district socially, financially and ethically, helping form the nucleus of our present large Union School district. They had appealed to the Commission several times for telephone connection with Campbell without using the inconvenient and expensive long distance calls. This territory formerly belonged to Saratoga district and necessitated calling Campbell thru San Jose. They have always been on the Campbell mail routes and both the high and grammar school buses travel the road daily bringing the children in to our and their fine schools.

As soon as arrangements can be made and Manager A. C. Keesling of the local phone company can make the change there will be added 8 or 10 more new phones on the local board.

Another good boost for Campbell district and hearty thanks is extended to Mr. York and his co-workers.

LOCAL MERCHANTS AT FINE BANQUET

Campbell merchants held another of their enjoyable get-together banquets at the Geo. E. Hyde cafeteria Wednesday partaking of a delightful chicken dinner prepared by Mrs. J. P. Jorgensen.

President Hal Morton appointed Chauncey Whitman as toastmaster, who took charge following the dinner.

The general trend of the talks was to make Campbell a more sociable and congenial family in which to live. The greatest asset to any community is its friends and the best friends are made by the community builders. Ergo: Be neighborly.

Very encouraging reports were heard from the publicity effects of our new signs placed about the district. More will be placed later. Altho on account of business, sickness and other urgent calls as many were not present as wished to be, the evening was an enjoyable and profitable one. There were present: Hal Morton, George Robson, "Doc" Stallman, Charley Shumway, Elyott Tucker, Charley Berry, Ed Sower, Ed Merrill, Dad Fay, Don McQueen, Horace Lea, Ira Grim, Harry Smith, John Strong, Leon Miller, Roy Archibald, Chancey Whitman, and Ben Curry. Get it, men?

CAMPBELL LOSES GRAND OLD CHARACTER IN PASSING OF DR. C. N. COOPER

In Memorium

Chas. N. Cooper was born near Akron, Ohio, March 27, 1844. His father was a lineal descedant of Elder Brewster of the Mayflower, and of the Puritan type. Charles was the youngest of nine children, and when still a small boy his father moved west to Illinois and bought a farm near Batavia.

To secure the benefits of an academy education, Charles at the age of twelve went to live with his oldest brother, Samuel. He qualified for Grinnell College, Iowa, and was in attendance at that instituton at the time of the Civil War. When his college mates began to enlist he desired to join them, but his older brother Frederick came to the same decision at the same time and so Charles went back to the farm to harvest the fall crops.

His brother Samuel had previously joined the forces and served throughout the war, finally becoming a colonel. Frederick died in a military hospital. As soon as the way opened, Charles enlisted and served until the close of the war.

He then re-entered Grinnell College and completed his course. Between college terms he taught in various rural schools, and as a lad of fifteen sometimes taught young men of eighteen and twenty. Even at that age, however, he stood six feet and managed to maintain discipline.

He hesitated at this time as to choice of a life career, the professions of teaching and medicine both calling him. His decison was ultimately for medicine and he entered the Northwestern Medical College of Chicago.

His record there was brilliant. He finished the course in less than the allotted time and was offered a chair in the college. Active practice however, had the greater appeal and he took an internship in Mercy Hospital.

He married Lydia Windsor immediately upon graduation in 1869 and began the practice of Medicine. He was in Cresco, Iowa, five years and then at Batavia, Illinois for thirteen, where he had a heavy practice. It was the arduous toil and exposure to the cruel winters that here broke his health He never spared himself however bitter the storm, and even his iron constitution could not stand the continual strain.

In the seventies he was forced to seek a milder climate, and chose Tennessee, where he had once served as a soldier. He made many warm friends in Cleveland among the southern gentlemen, but his heaviest practice was probably among the negroes from whom he received more love than pay.

Finally in 1890 he brought his family to California and bought a ranch in Campbell, intending to retire from medical practice. As his health began to improve, however, he felt impelled to resume his work among the sick.

His brother, Samuel, and three of his siters, Mrs. Bull, Mrs. Watson, and Mrs. Buchanan followed him to California and made their homes in Campbell.

Samuel Cooper founded the Bank of Campbell, and the Doctor, from the first, assisted in its management. Upon the death of his brother, the Doctor became president, and occupied this position until the merger with the Garden City Bank of San Jose.

The strenuous duties of a country doctor and of his growing practice once more became too burdensome for his advanced years and failing health, and he was forced permanently to retire about fifteen years ago. Dr. Cooper was a keen diagnostician, an unusually successful practitioner and a healer of mind and character as well as body.

From young manhood he was always active in church work. His Sunday School class of young men in Batavia presented him with a gold watch when he retired from Illinois. He has been a deacon of the local Congregational church throughout most of its history, and one its mainstays.

In the passing of Charles N. Cooper, Campbell has lost one of its finest old characters. There is probably not one of the older families of the community who have not felt the strength and comfort of his benignant personality in time of sickness or adversity. He was the type of doctor who could stick to the truth even with a sick patient and yet use tact enough to do him no harm.

He stood for every moral virtue, for the complete subordination of self to service and for loyalty and devotion to the nation and to the broader interests of humanity. At one time he felt a strong urge for the Christian ministrv, and among his later gifts have been four thousand dollars for missions.

His death, even at the advanced age of eighty, is a distinct loss to no small circle of relatives and friends, and can be traced without indirection to that ideal which he set for himself at the outset of his career—the health and happiness of others first, his own last.

As his Puritan ancestors left the indelible imprint of their personalities upon infant America, so Dr. Cooper has left his upon this little town. How far reaching the influence of those stalwart characters would be they little foresaw, but probably there has been no greater factor in shaping our nation toward its present ideals. We likewise cannot measure the force for good of his life lived among us. But that his life was filled with power and was as worthy as any in his Puritan line we know, and we also know that such lives count.

Charles Noah Cooper, after a brief illness from pneumonia joined his waiting friends on the other side, Monday morning, January 21, 1924. His wife, his three sons, Charles, John, and Will, and his daughter Mrs. T. A. Cutting were all with him during his closing hours.

The funeral services were held at ten o'clock this morning from the Congregational church. Interment was at Mt. Olivet cemetery in San Mateo county.

The sincere sympathy of the entire community is extended to the family in this their great loss.

Local Paper Great Asset to Merchants

The advertising power of the press is one of the greatest forces that can be employed in successful merchandising, declares H. B. Allen, president of the San Francisco real estate board, who believes that advertising has proved one of the most successful agencies in making San Francisco one of the greatest of American cities.

"Advertising has become generally recognized as an especial part of any merchandising undertaking." he says. "America's most successful merchants are those who have made a careful study of advertising and understood how and when and why to employ advertising.

"Undoubtedly the most powerful form of published advertising for the retailer his his local press.

"Newspapers enable the retailer to reach the greatest possible number of people at the lowest possible cost. The most effective way of employing newspaper advertising is through sustained, rather than spasmodic effort.

"Advertising has proved of value not only to the seller, but also to the buyer, in that it makes for fair prices and stabilized values."

Wood Magic

The forest lays an ancient spell
On him who loves her more than well,
Henceforth he plainly hears and sees
What were before but mysteries;
Enchanted tales she has to tell
To one beneath her fairy spell.

His eyes are open, his ears are keen
To what was hidden, unheard, unseen—
The busy rustle of young leaves growing,
The great hoarse words of the big winds blowing,
The clinking silver of the moonlight,
The golden trumpets of the sunlight;
He can watch the fingers of the grass
Reach out and out as the raindrops pass,
And he feels a touch like a bird's brown wing
On his cheek, when the winds in the pine trees sing.
He can hear the poplars talk all night,
And he can hear through the star clear light,
Before the sleepy thrushes call,
The drowsy voice in the waterfall.

Surely the forest weaves her art
Round him who gives her all his heart!

"It Was Your Prime Minister George Who Saved Turkey From Herself"

By DR. A. J. TOYNBEE, in Contemporary Review.

Had we succeeded in establishing a moral hold over the last independent Moslem state, our ascendency would hardly have been disputed elsewhere; and the whole Islamic world, from Bengal to Constantinople, and from the African lakes to the Caucasus, might have been drawn into the wake of the British Empire, except for a few French and Italian dependencies scattered here and there as enclaves.

Looking back on this position today, the Turks, Egyptians, Afghans, and Indians whom an English visitor meets at Angora have a way of smiling and professing ironical gratitude to Mr. Lloyd George.

"It was your late prime minister," they explain, "who saved Turkey from herself. Had he given her one touch of kindness, one friendly stroke or a gentle word, she would have licked his hand and we might all have lost our independence forever. Fortunately, he preferred to kick her till she showed her teeth and summoned up her last energies to fight for her existence; and, as it turned out, we have gained far more by defiance than we could ever have gained by conciliation."

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

"Nothing of worth or weight can be achieved with half a mind, with a faint heart, and with a lame endeavor."

—Barrow.

WHERE IS THE EXCLUSIVE WASHINGTON BOOTLEG BOOK OF NAMES?

Mixed drinks have caused a mixup in Washington. Or do the thirsty in the national capital drink 'em straight? At any rate a raid which netted much liquor resulted in the finding of what is alleged to be a list of customers supplied by a Washington bootlegger syndicate. And, it is said, all sorts of prominent names were written on the list.

Just who will be brought forth as a lover of the cup that cheers is a most disturbing factor right now in Washington. Of the 1,400 names, only twenty-one are known to the authorities. Thirteen hundred and seventy-nine dodge publicity and probable prosecution. And who knows who is on the list that is safe in the hands of the treasury department sleuths? It means that 1,400 of Washington's elite must quake with fear of the limelight.

"What's in a name?" may be all right, but what names are in the Washington bootleggers' lists is something else again.

WASHINGTON IS LEGALLY WET

America is technically, constitutionally and legally dray as Andrew Volstead and his friends could make it. New York harbor is even legally dry. The metropolitan city itself may have oceans of illicit and deadly moonshine but then patron as well as the rich bootlegger are both guilty before the law. The only place where Americans can honestly and legally take a glass of whiskey in the United States is Washington, D. C.

The prohibition law exempts the foreign embassies, and therefore any thirsty senator can apparently call at the French embassy and enjoy a glass of the most select champaigne, or if he prefers "old Scotch" he visits the British embassy.

MOVIE AWAKENING

It would seem that the movie magnates are waking up to the fact that salaries had gone so high that it was impossible to make both ends meet and pay them.

So it is reported that some of the big companies have closed their studios in New York and Hollywood. Some have made enough pictures to last for some time, and are ahead of their schedule, and one concern says that it has fifteen million dollars invested in pictures that have not been released.

Movie cost has been too high, the producers say, and they are taking their first step to reduce it.

HARRY K. THAW

Harry K. Thaw again attains first page publicity by pleading sanity. Insanity saved him from paying the penalty for murder. Still, if a fool may be sane, perhaps Thaw can qualify. His youth was wasted in riotous living. His mature years have been wasted in jails, asylums, etc., or in trying to evade them. Such a career doesn't entitle him to enrollment with the best minds.

MORE COURTESY NEEDED

The old question of hospitality and courtesy should enter into the present day life more than they do, we think. It used to be against good tatse to become a man's guest and then criticise the hospitality received. It is such a pity that this has gone out of fashion.

PEOPLE'S GREED

People are real greedy. Just as we read about the poultry saving the country, along comes fellow and wishes to make the hens lay two eggs a day. The next thing will be to insist on grease enough to fry them in.

Just North of Ainsley's Cannery

The value of gold, silver, copper and lead produced in California in 1923 is estimated at $20,646,400. The year's noteworthy features were production of 4,560,000 pounds more of lead than in 1922. The silver yielded by the lead and copper ores brought the production of silver up to a figure larger than that of 1922. The gold mines were not so productive as in 1922, notwithstanding the large developments under way at several gold producing camps.

The Housewife and Isleton Butter

THE intelligent housewife, we find, prefers to serve her table with brands that are familiar. She is not fickle. In a staple food, especially, she pins her faith to a name that is time-tested, like an old acquaintance among her friends.

A storekeeper acts wisely, then, when he selects his brands with care in the first place and is not changeable in his own buying. That is why we are proud of our record of eight years with Isleton Butter. We could not have sold the brand so long if it were not dependable. And since Isleton is dependable, we do not strain that excellent feminine quality of friendliness by offering our customers a butter comparatively new and strange.

Right here some one might ask, "Where does the man come in in buying groceries?" The answer is easy. His job is to do an errand at the store now and then and pay the bills.

And we will not give ground one inch in the high grade blend, or in the even grinding, or in the freshness of the roasting, or in any of the good points that give Blaine's Steel-Cut Coffee a quality so fine. The price is still 40c.

Have you learned from experiment how easily your fine wash goods can be made snowy white—with Solvene? Have you tested the effects of Solvene in producing fresh and soft woolens? Solvene is worth the regular price of 15c. It is a bargain at our price, 10c. It is very reasonable indeed in the large package, equal to eight small packages, at 60c.

Far Too Easy

The double header basket ball games Friday while quite exciting at times was far from a thriller. Campbell's 130 team and unlimiteds so far outclassed the visitors from the William Warren school that it was almost a crime to send them on the floor at the same time.

The 130's permitted but two-field goals while throwing nine themselves. The unlimited boys walked with all the bacon leaving not even the rind. The score was 35 to 0.

DR. CHAS. N. COOPER

A Tribute from a Friend.

The passing away of one who has for many years been in close touch with his fellowmen, is always a shock to the community in which he has lived. And when that one has been, through his profession, in closest touch with the intimate life of the homes as the beloved physician, then the personal sense of loss is doubled.

For over twenty years Dr. Cooper came and went among us as the untiring friend, the faithful physician, the wise counsellor, the patient listener; for the community doctor is confidante and friend to all classes alike, and when he retired from active practice, he still held his place as friend in the hearts of all those to whom he had ministered as phy - ician.

Coming to Campbell as he did in its earliest days, Dr. Cooper has always stood as a promoter of the highest ideals for the town. A friend of education and progress, he was one of those instrumental in establishing our first schools of higher education here. The first movement toward the founding of our Library was made through him and he always continued its staunch friend and supporter, holding office as Director of the Library Assocation for many years, and up to the time of his death. Workers for the Campbell Library will not soon forget him.

Uniting early with the Congregational church here, Dr. Cooper has since then been one of its strongest pillars, and has held the office of Deacon for many years. Regular in his attendance at its services, every member of the congregation from the minister down to the little chidlren in the Sunday School, will miss his kindly greeting and his ready helpfulness.

The town of Campbell has lost a Christian citizen, an unsparing foe of evil, a helper in all good work. The community life of the town is richer because of this life devoted to service in its midst.

GRANGERS ENJOY BIG "DINNA"

A large attendance, about 150, Grangers greeted the new incoming class Tuesday evening at the Orchard City Grange meeting. The banquet, for which this order is famous, was spread in the new library hall where the committee, in charge of Mrs. L. L. Merrill, had made everything in readiness.

E. K. Clendenning in speaking of water conservation thought the matter should be taken up again as a great deal of water goes to waste yearly in this valley which should be conserved for use when needed.

The water conservation engineer will be asked to speak before an open meeting at the next of the Grange to which the public will be invited.

A number of visitors from Mountain View were present and gave some interesting talks.

The work of the drill team conducted by Mrs. M. J. Wilson was exceptionally well put on and elicited much favorable comment.

The new members initiated were: A. H. Wegel, Lillian Ohlen, E. W. Ohlen, Mabel C. Keesling, Archie Keesling, Wilma Lea, Horace Lea, Kittie Johnson and Leila J. D. Marshall.

PROFITABLE CHARITY

The Charity Tea held by the Pundita Reading Circle at the home of Mrs. James Turner, January 16, was a decided success. The object of the affair was to reimburse their charity fund, to be used as the needs arose. Aside from tea and cakes, the ladies had cakes, candies and fancy articles for sale. The club netted something over $40.00. Ashort program was given. Mrs. Stephen Jones, of San Jose, gave a very interesting talk on the recent trip to China. Miss Schulte entertained with several readings and Mrs. W. S. Shelly sang two songs in her usual pleasing manner.

John B. Casserly, capitalist, patron of music and son of the late Senator Eugene Casserly, died at his San Mateo home.

While the body of Peter Westfall, the last chief of the Ahwahnee Indians, was lying in state in the Indian roundhouse near Raymond, his tribesmen, gathered from hundreds of miles in the foothills, to sound the death wail. With the death of Chief Peter, passes the Ahwahnee Indian habit of appointing a chieftain. The dead chief's father's thumb mark is said to be on the "Lost Treaties of California."

Two splendid tracts of redwood timber have been saved and funds established for the purchase of three more during the year 1924, says the annual report of the Save the Redwoods league. The Humboldt Pioneer Memorial grove, nine miles north of Orick on the state highway in Humboldt county, was given to the state of California through the league.

STUDY CLUB HOLDS DISPLAY

The Country Woman's Club held a meeting of unusual interest Monday afternoon. The local hall was filled with members and guests who thoroughly enjoyed the program and wonderful display of Chinese rugs, screens, porcelains, tables, chairs and shoes which were kindly loaned for the afternoon by J. Walter Crider, of Los Gatos.

Mrs. Warren Shelly, in a beautiful Chinese garment of old blue, was in charge of the program. She spoke of the aim of Chinese artists; of their marvelous skill and patience, influenced by an exquisite symbolism, and finished by reading an appreciation of the beauty of Old China-town, San Francisco by Will Irwin. Mrs. E. R. Kennedy and Mrs. Price were also arrayed in gorgeous Chinese robes, adding greatly to the Oriental effect.

Mrs. H. H. Weaver followed with a very interesting paper on Chinese Porcelains and Pottery, and Painting the Pre-eminent Art of China.

The next number on the program was a group of Chinese songs: "It Is Nice to Be a Boy Sometimes." "Chinese Lullaby" from the Ming Toy Opera, and "The Operatic Tea", charmingly sung by Miss Helen Kalas in costume accompanied by Miss Bozena Kalas. Mrs. Price entertained with personal reminiscenses of her visit to Canton, and showed many souvenirs purchased in the bazaars there.

With Mr. Crider explaining where and how the rugs and reed furniture are made by mere boys, and other illuminating facts relating to the collection of shoes, banners, lanterns etc., a program of unique and absorbing interest was brought to a close.

Picking Them Out

A commercial traveler visiting a Glasgow warehouse made a bet with the manager that he could pick out all the married men among the employees.

Accordingly he stationed himself at the door as they returned from dinner, and mentioned all those whom he believed to be married. In almost every case he was right.

"How do you do it?" asked the manager.

"Oh, it's quite simple," said the traveler. "The married men wipe their feet on the mat; the single ones don't." — Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Rose to the Occasion

A riverside village boasted a post on which was marked a line showing the height to which the river had risen during the time of a serious flood.

"Do you mean to say that the river reached this height five years ago," asked the astonished visitor.

"Not exactly, sir," replied the villager, "but the children were so fond of rubbin' out the first mark that the council had to put it a bit higher so as to be out of their reach."

He Didn't Hear It

A man went up to a pretty girl at the blouse counter of a department store and said with a blush that he wanted to buy a georgette blouse—something very tasty in pink or baby blue.

"What bust?" said the pretty girl.

The man gave a start.

"Why," he said, "I didn't hear nothing!"
